NAPA 3217, 3231, and 3232 Product Construction Updates

Construction updates have been made to these filters resulting in notable appearance changes. The inside/out flow pattern of the previous design used an open endcap. The update design has an outside/in flow pattern and uses a closed endcap.

Previous Design

Updated Design

The bottom endcaps of the previous (left) and updated (right) designs are pictured. The installation instructions have also been updated to include international markings (right, above).

This change is part of an ongoing commitment for product improvement. Though the designs appear different, the previous and new versions are fully interchangeable and suitable for use on all recommended applications.
